

Outdoor training

The goal: Building trust, a culture of communication and problem solving within a team.

Outdoor training has consistently developed since the 90s and today is established as effective and goal-oriented method in team development.

Elements like problem solving, trust, cooperation and communication are represented in team tasks and learning experiences are transferred to the daily routine.

Our learning actions and settings purposefully and sustainably support the work on your subjects.

The participants' work in small learning projects, whose reflection can be directly transferred to daily business.

The transfer: We develop the matching metaphors for the world of our clients. This is an important cause for the identification with tasks and the successful transfer already in the training.

Outdoor safety: We work according to the safety standards of the European Ropes Course Association (ERCA) and the German Alpine Club.

We deliver: a selection of excellent locations for outdoor programs and develop a taylormade design , inspired by your subjects.
